20 Highway Projects Let at 4 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Contracts for 20 road projects which will cost $4,185,636 were awarded by the Arkansas Highway Commission yesterday.

The commission also authorized highway Director Herbert Eldridge to buy $770,118 worth of road machinery and vehicles during the fiscal year which started July 1.

Nearly one million dollars in contracts went for three projects involving the resurfacing of 54 miles of state Highway 63 from Hoxie to the Missouri line. The contracts were divided between three firms.

They were Ben M. Hogan Co. of Little Rock, which bid $331,130 a job to resurface about 16 1/2 miles from Hardy to Mammoth Spring; D. F. Jones Construction Co., Inc., of Little Rock, $243,180 on a 17-mile section from Hoxie to Imboden; and Southeast Construction Co. of Pine Bluff, $392,042 to resurface about 2 1/2 miles from Imboden to Hardy.

The commission awarded contracts for $846,795 worth of work on two projects on U. S. Highway 79 in eastern Arkansas and turned over bids on a contract to resurface nearly 17 1/2 miles of the highway in Monroe and Monroe Counties because they were too high.

The Reynolds Williams company of Little Rock had submitted a low bid of $396,658 on the 17 1/2-mile stretch from Stuttgart northeast to the west end of the White River at Clarendon. Four other firms also submitted bids on the job, which will be read and listed later.

The Hogan company, low bidder at $305,304, was awarded a contract to resurface about 20 miles of U. S. 79 in Lee County from the Monroe County line to the west edge of Marianna.

Another Little Rock firm, Arco, Inc., got the contract to resurface about 17 1/2 miles of U. S. 79 from Wadsworth to the edge of Stuttgart in Jefferson and Arkansas counties. This bid was $341,491.

Reynolds Williams also got a $412,258 contract to widen and resurface about eight miles of U. S. 63 from Falmers Creek north in Faulkner county.

Fifteen of the 20 contracts were for projects under the federal emergency aid program.

Yesterday's contract awards brought the total of road improvement contracts in 1958 to $25,300,000.

In other action, the Highway Commission allocated $124,243 for improvement of 108 miles of roads in 13 counties under the Millum Act. This law, authorized last year by state Sen. Roy Millum of Harrison, lets each county turn over

Hempstead Qualifies for State Roads

LITTLE ROCK — Conditions set out by the State Highway Commission for inclusion of county roads into the state highway system have been met by Hempstead county and the Commission took action Wednesday that will result in inclusion of the roads into the state system as soon as they can be improved to a standard for maintenance.

The roads are located from Highway 4 southeast of Hope through Shover Springs to the Nevada county line and from Highway 20 east through Palmos to another county road intersection.

Herbert Eldridge, director of highways, was authorized to proceed with the work necessary to provide a standard for maintenance at an estimated cost of $10,843.55 and when this work is completed to erect highway signs and markers for the convenience of the traveling public and to accept them into the system for state maintenance.

Major-Size Earthquake Hits Alaska

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — A sharp earthquake described by a seismologist as one of major magnitude, shook wide areas of southeastern Alaska Wednesday night but caused very little damage there. There were no deaths or injuries.

Dr. Don Tocher, seismologist at the University of California at Berkeley, said the quake, which he said was a major one, was centered in the Gulf of Alaska.

Dr. Charles Richter of the California Institute of Technology Seismological Laboratory at Pasadena said had the quake occurred in a populated area it would have caused a disaster.

In the Gubernatorial Campaign Faubus Finkbeiner Ward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gov. Orval Faubus yesterday renewed a contention that his actions in Little Rock had no adverse effects on Arkansas' efforts to expand industrially.

In a campaign speech, the third-joint candidate said some persons "wanted to leave the impression that what I did at Little Rock hurt the industrial program in Arkansas and particularly in Little Rock."

Faubus surrounded Little Rock Central High School with Arkansas National Guardsmen who carried nine Negro students. He withdrew the troops only after a federal judge enjoined him from interfering with integration.

The governor read from a publication of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce, an article which said Little Rock is one of 12 cities in the nation to show an increase in population since 1940.

1,041-Pound Earl Hughes Dies at 32

REMEM, Ind. (AP) — Robert Earl Hughes, 32, possibly the heaviest man in medical history, died today in his trailer home parked beside Bremen Community Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Harris, hospital administrator, said Hughes evidently was the cause of the 1,041-pound man's death.

He became ill while traveling with a carnival and was brought to this northern Indiana town Sunday, suffering from a variety of ailments, including measles and a heart condition.

He could not be taken into the hospital building because of his massive bulk, to great for any standard bed. He remained in the traveling house, built on a truck bed, and nurses climbed a ladder to attend him.

Otto Huff, Bremen undertaker, embalmed the body on Hughes' trailer bed, built of two-by-four boards. He said it probably would be necessary to leave the body in the trailer while it is taken to Emden, Mo., for funeral services.

Guy B. Hughes, brother of the big man, said he would order a special coffin but it probably would be too large to be taken into the Emden Baptist Church for the funeral. Burial will be in a cemetery at Binville, Ill. Definite times were not set immediately.

Hughes was 10 feet 2 around the waist, 40 inches around each upper arm and 6 feet tall.

Guy, his wife, and his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Demis, gave personal care to Robert Earl during his illness.

Mouse Mounts Rocket; Return Narrow Squeak

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Preliminary reports today indicated that the chances are good for recovering a live mouse hurled through space in the advanced nose cone of a Thor-Able rocket Wednesday night.

The Air Force announced 15 minutes after what appeared to be a perfect launching that preliminary data showed the missile performed satisfactorily.

It still was too early to tell, however, whether the towering two-stage rocket was the first U.S. ballistic weapon to travel 6,000 miles or more through space.

The mission was to recover the nose cone and its live passenger if they survived the fiery plunge through the earth's atmosphere from outer space.

A successful test also would prove the performance of the two stages which reportedly will play a key role in three Air Force moon probes. A three-stage version of the Thor-Able probably will be used in the first lunar shot expected in a month or so.

The same Douglas Aircraft Co. team which handled Wednesday night's launching will control the first Air Force flight toward the moon.

A fleet of Air Force telemetry ships was stationed near Ascension Island off the African coast to spot the nose cone as it dropped into the depths.

Only the Shark, a jet-propelled missile that travels only at 600 m.p.h., has covered the intercontinental distance up to now. It is not a space weapon, however.

The test rocket — a Douglas Thor intermediate range missile coupled with a modified Vanguard second-stage vehicle — streaked into the starlit Florida sky with an ear-splitting roar and a flash of yellow flame.

The rocket appeared to function normally during the three minutes it was in view to press-observers a mile and a half from the launching site.

If he survived the 30-minute trip, the tiny white mouse would be a prize patient for researchers studying the problems of manned space flight.

The mouse was nicknamed "Mia" for "Mouse in Able."

The original "Mia" died when the first Thor-Able rocket became lost in space and apparently plunged into the Atlantic last April 23.

Father Ill of Cancer Waits for His Son

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — John Wenzinger Sr. is waiting for his son.

He doesn't have long to wait. The 64-year-old man is dying of cancer, and he knows it.

Four of his sons, a daughter and 10 grandchildren have gathered about Wenzinger in his home here.

But one son is missing. John Wenzinger Jr., 36, left Jersey City a year ago to work as a civilian guard at a military establishment in El Paso, Tex. He wrote his mother last month that he was giving up the job, and his parents have not heard from him since.

Wenzinger's family appealed to newspapers to publish the story in the hope that John will read it and return home.

He has only a few days to do it.

Canada, U. S. Set Up Joint Defense Body

OTTAWA (AP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister John Diefenbaker agreed today to establish a Joint U.S.-Canadian Cabinet Committee on continental defense.

A statement issued by the two leaders said the new body will supplement, but not supplant, existing joint committees and boards, such as the Joint Defense Board.

The decision was reached at a final session this morning. As a result of earlier talks, the North American neighbors had agreed to cooperate on the question of trade with Red China and means of preventing a surprise attack.

Friday Eisenhower returns to Washington. He will stop at Massena, N.Y., for a look at the St. Lawrence Seaway project — an other symbol of Canadian-American cooperation.

The President and Prime Minister announced that their governments will consult fully from now on in attempts to resolve, as they come up, differences arising over conflicting export policies and laws.

Such conflict exists on commerce with Communist China. The United States bans all trade with the Chinese Reds; Canada embargoes only sales of strategic goods.

The point of dispute has been application of the American embargo to Canadian subsidiaries of American firms, the Ford Motor Co. of Canada in particular. Feelers from Red China for purchase of 1,000 cars were turned down by Ford of Canada after consulting the parent company in the United States.

With Canada hit by unemployment, the matter became an issue in the Canadian election campaign last spring.

Nobody was saying whether Ford of Canada would now be allowed to sell cars to the Chinese Reds. But Eisenhower noted in his speech to Parliament Wednesday that American-controlled Canadian industries are subject to Canadian law. And after the agreement was announced, Canadian Finance Minister Donald M. Fleming, stressed the word that the intention is that Canadian law and Canadian law alone would prevail over persons or corporations carrying on business in Canada.

Eisenhower and Diefenbaker also agreed that experts of both countries will begin working together on a study of safeguards against surprise attack, especially across the arctic.

County Man Held by FBI for Robbery

FBI report to Star Wednesday night
Theodore Williams, 35-year-old Negro of Hempstead County, also known as Theotis Williams, was arrested at Chandler, Ariz., Wednesday by agents of the FBI, according to J. J. Casper, special agent in charge of the Little Rock office of the FBI.

Williams had been sought by the FBI since December 1955 for violation of the fugitive law act in connection with the burglarizing of Hunt's Store in Hempstead County.

Williams is being held at Phoenix, Ariz., in lieu of $1000 bond on a complaint filed by then Deputy State Prosecuting Attorney C. V. Nunn, Jr. of Hope before U. S. Commissioner Thelma C. Winham of Texarkana, Ark., on Dec. 21, 1955, charging Williams with the violation.

The complaint charges that Williams fled Arkansas to avoid prosecution for the crime of burglary. A federal warrant was issued for Williams' arrest at that time.

Williams and Walter Peoples were charged with burglarizing the store on or about Jan. 5, 1956. Peoples was apprehended by officers of the Hope sheriff's department and was sentenced, on two counts of burglary and grand larceny to serve three and two years, to run consecutively in the Arkansas State Penitentiary.

Williams was placed in the custody of the U. S. Marshal at Phoenix following a hearing before U. S. Commissioner C. B. Wilson of Phoenix.

Williams is a native of Hempstead County and lists his occupation as farmer.

Goldfine Balks at Explaining $178,982 Check

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard Goldfine refused today to tell House investigators why he issued two checks totaling $178,982 last year. The congressman threatened to subpoena his books.

Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark) of the House subcommittee hearing Goldfine for the fourth day gave the Boston industrialist a choice—either answer the question or have his books subpoenaed for committee inspection.

"On advice of counsel, I can't answer," Goldfine said.

The checks in the controversy were one for $83,385.35 issued March 28, 1957, and one for $95,597.29 issued April 30, 1957, to the Yale Wool Waste Co. by one of Goldfine's textile mills, the Northfield firm.

Rep. John B. Benet (R-Mich) said the Yale Co. was under investigation in 1957 on a mislabeling charge. He said Yale had sold some of the goods involved in the investigation to Northfield at a lower price than usual.

He demanded that Goldfine say whether the checks were issued to pay Yale for any goods supplied to Northfield.

Goldfine said the checks were never used. He said they were deposited back into the bank by his Northfield firm. Therefore, he argued, they could not have been used for any purpose.

Benet insisted that Goldfine say whether they were intended, when issued, to be used as a line of credit.

"I respectfully decline to answer," Goldfine replied. He said the question was not pertinent to the committee's investigation of Federal Trade Commission activities.

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators turned to their law books today to determine just how far they can go in questioning Bernard Goldfine about uncashed checks and other matters.

Subcommittee counsel Robert W. Lishman has been asked to study Supreme Court opinions on what congressmen may and may not properly ask.

The court in one major opinion on that point a year ago ruled that a committee must show the witness that its questions are pertinent to the inquiry. That opinion, which set aside a contempt of Congress conviction, quoted another opinion that congressional investigation into individual affairs "is invalid if unrelated to any legislative purpose."

Goldfine, limiting the extent to which he would answer questions Wednesday about his business affairs, contended many queries were not pertinent.

Expressing interest in more study of the question of pertinence were Reps. John Bell Williams (D-Miss), John P. Moss (D-Calif.), John B. Bennett (R-Mich) and Peter F. Mack (D-Ill).

Questioners were trying to show that the $178,982 Goldfine got from the Yale Wool Waste Co. was a federal loan through the DETROIT (AP) — Service station operator James Hill said a man carrying a .22 rifle walked into his station Wednesday night and "told me to put the money on the counter, so I put out $100."

Hill said the gunman told him "I only want $47. Count it out."

Hill counted out $47 and gave it to the man who said, as he left, "I only need $47 and that's all I'm taking. I hope you understand I need it desperately."

Yank Airmen Manhandled in Armenia

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—The senior officer aboard the unarmed U. S. transport plane shot down in Soviet Armenia June 27 said today some of the nine American airmen received rough treatment from the local population.

Col. Dale D. Brannon of Chardon, Ohio, told a crowded news conference.

"My hands were tied behind my back and I was beaten in the face by fists and later kicked in the body when placed aboard a truck for transport to the local village."

The Air Force colonel gave details of the airmen's experiences during 10 days captivity in Russia.

Col. Brannon said the five airmen who hailed out of the burning plane after it was attacked by Soviet MIG fighters were subjected to abuse by the local people.

"The four who landed with the plane and were picked up by Soviet soldiers were not molested, he added.

"The abuse by civilians of the other five stopped as soon as they were turned over to Soviet authorities, he said.

Col. Brannon added that the "over-all treatment by local authorities was considerate."

The plane, a C-119 attached to this big American air base in West Germany, was on a routine flight carrying cargo assigned to U. S. diplomatic and military missions in Iran and Pakistan.

It strayed over Soviet Armenia in bad weather and was attacked by MIG fighters. "The nine airmen and crewmen were released to an American representative on the Iranian frontier last Monday."

They were flown back to Wiesbaden, headquarters of the U. S. Continued on Page Two

American Cooks Surprise Europeans With a Frozen Custard at Brussels Fair

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — America has scored an unexpected culinary triumph at the Brussels International Exposition with — of all things — frozen custard.

"The Europeans have gone crazy over it," said David Berge, executive vice president of the Brasserie restaurant chain.

Last Sunday they bought 7,000 cones.

As supervisor of dining facilities in the American pavilion at the fair, Berge met nothing but head-aches at the start.

"It seemed for a while like we had almost as many critics as customers," he remarked.

Berge found himself in the soup — literally — when he put Manhattan clam chowder on the menu.

An indignant chorus from Continental Main immediately demanded equal billing for New England clam chowder.

"I was an editorial comment by the famous 'Vineyard Gazette' of Martha's Vineyard, Mass. 'It may be sometime demonstrated that Manhattan clam chowder is the main cause of juvenile delinquency. When the relaxation of old standards and principles begins, anything can happen.'

Berge, a man who likes to keep everybody happy, bowed this week to regional pride.

"Starting this week we're putting both chowders on the menu," he said. "They mentioned things like clam chowder, chesapeake, ham, burgers, hot dogs, roast beef, corned beef, apple pie, American

NAACP Plea to Stay Order Is Declined

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The U. S. Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals today set Aug. 4 to hear an appeal from an order suspending integration at Little Rock Central High School for 30 months.

Chief Judge Archibald Gardner appointed three judges to hear the case which stemmed from the suspension ruling handed down by U. S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley of Hope, Ark., at Little Rock on June 21.

Both the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which is appealing Lemley's ruling, and the Little Rock School Board were invited to petition for an early hearing and to suggest a date.

Wiley Branton of Pine Bluff, Ark., attorney for the NAACP who was in St. Louis yesterday, responded almost immediately. He filed a motion asking that a hearing be held Aug. 4.

At Little Rock, School Board President Wayne Upson indicated that the board would not try to rush the appeal hearing.

"After all, it's their appeal, not ours," said a school board attorney. The school board had petitioned for the suspension of integration.

The St. Louis court deferred any action on a NAACP request for a stay of Lemley's order.

Such a "temporary" ruling would not terminate the controversy, the court said.

This means that the question of whether integration is resumed at Central High in September or is postponed until early 1961 will be decided by the appellate court here.

However, either side—the NAACP or the school board—could take the St. Louis court's ruling to the U. S. Supreme Court. The high court last week rejected a NAACP attempt to get a direct appeal, however, and said the matter must be carried through channels.

Because the Supreme Court is in summer recess, no action on his friendship with President Eisenhower's top aide Sherman Adams. Both Goldfine, a Boston textile and real estate millionaire, and Adams have steadfastly denied the charge.

Mack brought out from submarine files an investigative report that Goldfine, now 67, was indicted in 1909 on a charge of concealing assets in a bankruptcy case. Goldfine was then 12.

The charge was dismissed, apparently for lack of evidence.

Goldfine reddened, and shouted "I didn't know Mr. Mack was going to try to blackmail Goldfine or I wouldn't have come here."

The Boston industrialist is here technically as a voluntary witness. Subcommittee Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark) ruled that this "is going a little too far" and ordered Mack's and Goldfine's words stricken from the record.

Then Bennett wanted Goldfine to tell why he had issued a Nov. 7, 1955, check to his brother-in-law Louis Goldblatt for $45,407.61. The question was one of a number asked as the subcommittee sought to determine the reason for nearly $777,000 worth of cashiers' and treasurer's checks bought by Goldfine's companies and not cashed.

As he had on the others, Goldfine conceded the existence of the Goldblatt check but refused to say why he bought it. He said that was not the committee's business. That was his stock answer under any long interrogation.

TODAY'S 2-MINUTE MYSTERY

THE CASE OF
THE ESCOBI SAPPHIRE

Fourth of a series

by Donald J. Sobell

"The coroner just finished a preliminary examination," said Inspector Winters. "Professor Merlon died of a heart attack about 11 p. m. I telephoned you because of a complication over the Escobi Sapphire."

"The ring given him by the Maharani of Isha during his trip to the East last year," recalled Huledjian.

"And worth an emperor's ransom," added the inspector. "Miss Samuels, Professor Merlon's long-time secretary, claims he presented it to her last week. She kept it hidden in her room and told no one—afraid of causing family resentment. However, Anita Merlon, a teen-age niece, insists she saw her uncle wearing the sapphire an hour before he died."

"Thus the question is whether Miss Samuels received the sapphire as a gift, or by stripping it from a dead man's hand," said Huledjian, as he examined the body.

Edwin Merlon, rector in Rabbini Hebrew, lay slumped in a heavy leather armchair. A red volume, open to reveal Hebrew print, lay where it had fallen at the moment of death.

Huledjian asked to see the niece, who told her story with cool assurance.

"I was in the den with Uncle between 9 and 10 o'clock," she said. "I had some typing to do, and he said I might go ahead, as he was merely reading for pleasure."

"From the red book by the chair?"

"Yes."

"And was he wearing the Escobi Sapphire?"

"He was. I sat here at the desk, not eight feet from him. I couldn't have been mistaken. Occasionally, when his right hand turned the page, the jewel, which he wore on his little finger, flashed brilliantly."

Huledjian's face tightened in a rare display of anger. "You are a jealous young lady. I suggest you go directly to Miss Samuels and apologize for maliciously attempting to discredit her."

WHY DID HALEDJIAN BElieve the niece had concocted the story?

"For six years ago, my cousin, who was a book collector, had written to me, 'I have a rare book, the Escobi Sapphire, which was worn by the Maharani of Isha during her trip to the East last year.'"

When his right hand turned a page, the jewel flashed brilliantly.

Cpt. Brannon said one of the crewmen — Maj. Bennie A. Shupe of Miami, Fla., was threatened by the population with hanging.

"The rope was attached to a telephone pole and the noose was being placed over his head when he managed to convey to them the fact that he was an American," Brannon said.

"The group (of Russian civilians) then paused for a discussion. 'It was at this time that the Soviet military police arrived and took him into custody.'"

Brannon denied that the flight over Armenia was an intentional violation of Soviet territory. In order to avoid a turbulent thunderstorm, the plane steered slightly north off course, he said.

The crew did not realize it was over Soviet territory until they noticed two jet fighter aircraft approaching and circling around them, he added.

Our Farmers Benefit
FROM THE BREWING OF BEER

The Brewing Industry adds more than $250-million a year to farm income through the purchase of farm products. It takes three million acres of farm lands to produce the four billion pounds of grains used each year by this valuable industry. Farmers use almost 500 million pounds of enriched brewers' grains annually for cattle. Brewers' yeast gives us more productive, healthier chickens.

IN ARKANSAS

More than 120 million pounds of Arkansas grains are bought annually by brewers. Arkansas rice is prized for its high quality — brewers pay more than $3-million each year to Arkansas farmers for grains. Packaging of beer requires millions of dollars worth of cartons and cases produced from the forestlands of Arkansas and the South. Arkansas is aided in a healthy economy by a fine product. Brewers' yeast, a by-product of brewing, supplies health-giving vitamins and proteins for cereals, baby foods, and prepared meats. Yes, beer truly benefits farmers.

1957" in industrial employment. The publication was dated June 30 of this year.

"That is a good answer to the critics who said that I ruined everything because of the Little Rock affair," Faubus declared. Faubus reiterated previous statements that under his administration Arkansas obtained 313 new or expanded industries, 30,000 new industrial jobs and a resultant payroll boost of 60 million dollars yearly.

Today the governor's campaign map was marked for stops at Sheridan, Hampton and Camden.

Before taking to the road, however, Faubus planned to attend a session of the Southern States Apprenticeship Conference at Little Rock.

Faubus stressed this industrial theme in speeches at Strong, Hamburg, Lake Village, Dermott, Crossett and Monticello.

10 to 12 miles of roads to the state. Seventy-three counties all in the state except Jefferson and Yell—submitted 859 miles of roads to the Highway Department. The latest allocation increased to 189 the number of miles of roads designed for rehabilitation and added the total to be spent on them to $232,500.

Million Act roads which were included in yesterday's allocation included roads in St. Francis, Izard, Marion, Cleburne, Carroll, Paxley, Randolph, Howard, Sebastian, Green, Clay, Hempstead and Drew counties.

The authorization for Elkins to buy new machinery and vehicles included $15,000 for a steel tug boat at Norfolk Ferry to replace one 15 years old.

Equipment to be purchased also includes 30 automobiles, 136 trucks, 10 front-end loaders and 45 passenger carry-alls.

The commission said Arkansas' half of a proposed $500,000 bridge across the Red River 11 miles south of Foreman would be toll free. The 1,261-foot bridge will be constructed by the Arkansas and Texas Highway Departments and will link Arkansas Highway 41 to Texas Highway 8.

Motorists now have to cross the river there by ferry.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My mother thinks I'm too young to go out; I'm almost 16 but she says she wasn't allowed out until she was 18 and I'm going to be brought up the same way. — Heartbroken.

Dear Heartbroken: Ask Mom

Dear Dorothy Dix: Our son recently married and moved some distance away. He has called us only once since and has never written. I've begged him to drop just a few lines to us. He seems very happy to hear us when we call. My friends say it is the son's place to do the phoning and writ-

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm in love with Ronnie but find myself forced to admit he's not worth it. We've been going together for four years — all through high school. He has told me innumerable times that he loves me and there is no doubt that I'm head over heels in love with him. However, he has never been true to me. He dates other girls. Now about it, does many small, thoughtless things to hurt me but doesn't seem to care at all about my feelings. Right now we're not going steady and he's dating other girls. I know deep down that if he meets a girl he can really love, I'll be out in the cold. He takes my love for granted, as if it were something due him. I don't date anyone else. Do you think going out with other boys might wake Ronnie up?

Dear Cathy: You're a big girl now — ready to enter college and face life with your newly acquired maturity. Put that maturity to work. Ronnie is a junior playboy with no immediate intentions of surrendering any part of himself to one girl. He has a childish way of lying himself out of difficulties, a selfish way of considering only his own feelings. It's time you put him away with your other playthings. He certainly hasn't earned nor does he want, any permanence in your life. While you're away at school you'll meet boys of your own emotional level. Wish and work for better things than a counterfeit love.

"Great efforts must be made so Yugoslavia marches with us," he said.

GOVERNOR FAUBUS: A MAN of ACTION A PROGRAM for PROGRESS

Better schools mean better citizens. Under the administration of Governor Faubus, Arkansas school children are getting the kind of education they need and deserve.

The long under-paid teachers of our state have at last seen their pleas for fair salaries answered. During the 1957-58 school year, the average salary being paid classroom teachers in Arkansas was $3,133 — as compared with an average of $2,416 the previous year. The average increase was $717, or approximately 30 per cent. The state's Teacher Retirement system has also been greatly strengthened under the Faubus administration.

When the 1957 General Assembly increased the annual appropriation to our public schools from $29,700,000 to $44,000,000, it was specified that not less than 90 per cent of the $14,000,000 increase be used for classroom teachers—including salaries and teacher retirement benefits. This was done. In fact, the turnover in teachers is less than one-half of what it was a year ago. This is a direct result of higher salaries. And too, our schools are better able to provide necessary classroom facilities and other educational aids.

Elect ORVAL E. FAUBUS GOVERNOR

that counts

My position on forcible integration of schools or other facilities has been publicly stated on numerous occasions. It is unnecessary now to elaborate. I stand now and always in opposition to integration by force and at bayonet point. This is a democracy—the people should have a voice in their affairs, and the constitutional provisions of this government should remain inviolate. Arkansas has a long record of friendly relations between the races, and those relations should not be disturbed by outside influences as has been the case in recent months. I have taken my position in the protection and defense of the people of Arkansas in your constitutional right to govern yourselves in state and local affairs. From this position, I shall not recede nor yield.

Reds Say U. S. Flights Hint at Warfare

LONDON (AP)—A Moscow radio commentator today charged that flights of American bombers toward the Soviet borders are keeping the world "practically on the brink."

The broadcast renewed a charge which the Soviets pressed unsuccessfully in the U. N. Security Council three months ago. The purpose apparently was to make some propaganda capital out of the flight of an unarmed U. S. Air Force cargo plane which strayed over Soviet Armenia June 27 and was shot down by Soviet jet fighters.

Commentator Andreyev charged that American war planes make frequent "provocative flights toward Soviet borders."

Prince Charley Finds Himself in Money Jam

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON (AP)—Britain's future king has suffered an inglorious reverse in a big deal to straighten out his sticky finances at the school candy shop. This financial crisis in the life of 9-year-old Prince Charles took place at Cheam, his boarding school in nearby Berkshire.

His mother, Queen Elizabeth II, allows the heir to the throne 20 shillings — $2.80 — spending money each three-month term. Like the other boys, the king-to-be keeps it at what is called the bank in the candy shop.

With three weeks left in the term, Charles discovered he had no money left in the bank. So he staged a sale of some of his belongings.

Aware that there was an excellent opportunity to buy royal souvenirs cheap, other schoolboys flocked to Charles' sale.

Delighted with the result, the bonny Charles visited the candy shop once more dreaming, his friends said, of chocolate fudge and other delicacies.

But he wasn't allowed to make any purchases. Miss Margaret Cowlishall, in charge of the shop, knew that he had exhausted his candy funds. So—no sale.

He had to return the money.

In sending Charles to school with other boys, the Queen and Prince Philip insisted that he be treated the same as any other student.

He was.

Slight Delay in Mail Laid to Prankster

CHICAGO (AP)—Three postcards, bearing postmarks of 1910, 1912 and 1916, were delivered to postman Keith Ferguson's home last week. But he's going to return them to the post office.

"You're not supposed to keep mail that doesn't belong to you," Ferguson said Tuesday.

A spokesman at the Post Office said in effect, "don't blame us," although admitting an aura of mystery surrounding their delivery. The post office believes the cards were part of someone's collection for years and for some reason someone dropped them in a mail box.

All the cards bore the address of Ferguson's South Side home and were addressed to Mrs. Charles Johnston, C. Johnston and the Johnston family. Ferguson's mother has lived at the address for 28 years.

Gordon Gloats Over Indians' Beating Yanks

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe Gordon held forth at second base for the New York Yankees for many a year, but nowadays he's strictly an enemy of the Bronx Bombers. And, as an enemy with an occasion, he did a little gloating today.

"Boy," he laughed, "I bet they felt strange last night after getting rid of Power, Held and Hunter."

He was referring to Wednesday night's 12-2 slaughter of the Yanks — the first time he's come up against them as manager of the Cleveland Indians. He took over the Indians two weeks ago and the Tribe has won 7 of 11 since.

Vic Power, Woody Held and Billy Hunter all were laborers for Casey Stengel in recent years, but the Yanks couldn't find a spot for them Wednesday night, they really went to town against Whitney Ford and Virgil Trucks. Power had five hits, Held two and Hunter two.

The game was the only one scheduled in the American League

Dodgers Beat Braves for 8 Out of 10

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gloating up second division teams with regularity is the common behavior among front runners in the major leagues.

But that's not the way it's working with the first place Milwaukee Braves and the last place Los Angeles Dodgers.

Wednesday night the Dodgers knocked down the Braves for the eighth time in 10 meetings this season. The score was 10-3. This was the only game in the league's only action, the Cleveland Indians' only action, the Cleveland Indians' only action.

The Braves will be here again tonight. Pittsburgh will be at Chicago. Philadelphia at St. Louis and Cincinnati at San Francisco.

The heroes of Wednesday night's piece were Steve Bilko and Stan Williams.

Bilko, a local idol when he played in the Coast League for the old Los Angeles Angels, made his first starting appearance at home since his recent acquisition from Cincinnati. He slugged a three-run homer in the first inning. The big first baseman drove in an-

Silky Sullivan Is a Sick Horse

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Silky Sullivan, racing's come-from-behind horse, is ill and probably won't run in the $100,000 added Westerner at Hollywood Park July 19.

Trainer Reggie Cornell said Wednesday that the big chestnut colt developed a cough two days ago and has a slight fever.

Killebrew Is Nemesis for the Crackers

By The Associated Press

It was a dark day for Atlanta, mound ace Bob Hartman when the Chattanooga Lookouts retrieved Harmon Killebrew from the American Assn.

Hartman, felled four times in his bid for a 10th pitching triumph, today could trace his last two failures to the blond Lookout, Killebrew, who beat Hartman in Atlanta last week with a home run, supplied Chattanooga's go ahead run in the first game of a double header last night when he delivered John Schaefer with a perfectly executed squeeze bunt.

Chattanooga handed Hartman his sixth setback 32 and then overpowered the Southern Assn. leaders 7-1 in the second game.

Birmingham erupted for five runs in the 12th inning and tripped Nashville 6-1. The Barons sliced a game and a half from Atlanta's husky lead and pulled into second place, three games off the pace. Mobile fell to third by dropping a pair of close ones to Memphis. Chick left-hander Frank Baumann outdueled Chuck Kolakowski 2-1 in the short game, and the Chiefs stood off a ninth-inning Mobile rally to cap the midweek 4-3. Little Rock and New Orleans had their scheduled doubleheader postponed because of wet grounds.

Valdes Clips Carter in 9th Round

SPOKANE (AP)—Nino Valdes responded to a swat on the pants from his manager with a right to the chin of Harold Carter Wednesday night and jumped right back into the heavyweight title picture.

Valdes, behind on points, got the swat along with stern orders in Spanish from Manager Pohny Gleason to get going in the ninth round. He quickly got the message and laid Carter out cold in 1:40 of the round after dropping him for an eight count seconds before. Referee Joe August didn't even bother to count as Carter went down on his face and rolled over on his back. He raised Valdes' hand, then scowled "TKO" across his score card.

Thus, it became an official technical knockout at that moment regardless of what Carter did. It developed he did nothing but remain unconscious for another 60 seconds, then wobble out of the ring.

The nationally-televised fight, scheduled for 10 rounds, was the second test for the 24-year-old Carter since his discharge last winter from the Army.

He had been slightly favored on the strength of a 10-round decision June 13 over Willi Bosmanoff and was ahead on all three official score cards when the end came.

Gallant Man Looks Like a Shoo-in

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Gallant Man could very well have things all to himself in the $102,100 Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap Saturday.

Entries were awaited today but it appeared that opposition to Gallant Man would come from Senneen, Eddie Schmidt, Myrtle Eye and possibly Like Magic, Park Trust or Seiring Abbey.

The lineup, aside from Ralph Lowe's sensational 4-year-old, might well be the least impressive and the smallest in number since the Hollywood Turf Club inaugurated the attraction in 1936.

Backbone Gets 5th Win in 6 Starts

PAWBUCKET, R. I. (AP)—Boner's Farm's Backbone today boasted his fifth triumph in six handicap starts after a game performance to win the $37,790 Providence Stakes at Narragansett Park.

The son of French-bred Worden, who won the 1933 International at Washington, fought off fifteen challenges Wednesday to win the 13th running of the stakes and an eighth test for 3-year-olds in 10:35.

other run later with a sacrifice fly. Williams, a rookie night-hander, pitched a pretty four-hitter and picked up his fourth victory in seven decisions.

Night-holding Bilko in run production was rookie catcher John Roseboro, who drove in three with a double and a single. He scored twice himself, once after tripping

Life, Death Study Holds Red Interest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet scientists, in an extraordinarily comprehensive way, are "exploring the problems of death and revival."

An American doctor recently returned from Moscow said today.

Dr. Jean Henley of Columbia University medical center said she knew of no comparable program in this country.

She said in an interview that the Soviets are carrying on highly systematic research into the complex bodily changes that occur at death—and seeking means for combating them to restore life.

"They're studying every imaginable thing that happens, from every physiological standpoint," she said. Biochemists, neuro-anatomists, neuro-pathologists and others are all coordinating their skills on the problem, she said.

Dr. Henley, who toured Soviet medical institutions with five other American women scientists, said she watched a Soviet experiment in which a dog, drained of blood and dead for five minutes, was brought back to life.

"It was a very impressive experiment," she said. "But I don't think it was world-shaking." She said she thought similar work has been done in the United States—although three minutes is considered here to be the longest period of death from which normal brain recovery can be expected.

An American Heart Assn. spokesman said he knew of no identical experiments with like results.

DeGaulle to Delay Visit to U.S.A.

PARIS (AP)—Premier de Gaulle wrote President Eisenhower today that he would be too busy to visit Washington in the next few months "but I am sure we will find the means in the future to see one another."

DeGaulle was replying to a letter of invitation delivered to him last week by Secretary of State Dulles during his trip to Paris.

Pacific Vets to Return Jap Flags

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—"MacArthur's Butchers" are planning to return the Japanese battle flags they fought so bitterly to gain in the South Pacific jungles of World War II.

Veterans of the 41st Infantry Division, the outfit Tokyo Rose called "MacArthur's Butchers," plan to turn in their captured battle flags at a reunion July 1820 for return to the families of Japanese soldiers from whom they were taken.

Lettering on the flags will be translated to determine to whom they should be sent.

Chapter XXII

Fell was in Great Plains. Rosser felt sure that the railroad builder had his own sources of information and that he would learn the formation of a Vigilante Committee the moment such a step was taken.

Rosser was forced to move, even though he knew that movement was not ripe. He let his hand drop lightly at his side to make sure the leather thong that held down the bottom of his holster was securely tied.

He continued on to Ken Rud's saloon and entered.

The place was doing a substantial business. He thrust his way through the customers to the bar, where he was met by Ken Rud, who had seen him and come forward.

Rosser took a half dollar from his pocket, tossed it to the bar "Beer," he said to the bartender.

"Don't think you'll have time for a long one," Rud said solemnly. "I've got lots of time."

Rud shook his head angrily. "Do I have to spell it out for you? You're not welcome here."

Rosser sent a quick gesture about the room. "All these people get a personal invitation to come and spend their money here?"

The left side of Rud's face twitched as he tried to control himself. He said, "Rosser, if you're looking for trouble—"

The bartender set Rosser's glass of beer before him. Rosser picked it up, tasted a half mouthful and spat it out. "Stinking stuff," he growled, and tossed the glass to the bar.

The glass hit the bar, spilled the beer and rolled on behind the bar, where it crashed to the floor. Rosser indicated the half dollar he had tossed to the bar.

"Take it out of that."

Next door to Rud's Saloon was Wendell Lewis's store. Beyond it was The Nugget, owned and operated by Councilman Harold Price, who weighed 220 pounds, even though he stood but five feet six inches in his high-heeled boots.

He watched Tom Rosser as the latter came in and moved to the bar. He remained where he was, a good 20 feet from Rosser, as the bartender set out a footstool of beer. Rosser, in reaching for it, knocked over the glass.

Rosser's voice rose: "You clumsy son of a—"

Late was the lookout. He sat on a raised platform, overlooking the four layouts. He stepped down from his perch.

He approached the bar as Harold Price finally came forward. Late gave his employer a quick glance, saw only bland impassiveness on his face and reached for Rosser.

Rosser smashed him in the face. Late gasped, reeled back and bumped against Price, whose fat arms steadied him.

"Get him," said Price in a low voice.

Late stepped forward, then stopped. A shudder ran through him. "Rosser," he said thickly.

Rosser reached out, hit Late in the face with the back of his hand, a contemptuous, stinging blow. Late took it with a shudder. Then Rosser finally fixed his gaze upon Price.

Price said, "Get out of here!" Rosser took a short step forward. His hand came up, raked Price's face with the knuckles.

"My name's Rosser, Master Rosser," he said. "See that you remember."

Grimacing mockingly, he made a half turn, started in an arc for the door. He crossed the street to Pleasure Palace.

Smiling wolfishly, Rosser stepped up to Riley Condon's bar and said loudly, "Glass of beer!"

Sim Akins, seated at the table, suddenly got to his feet and also came toward the bar. There saw a bright new star pinned to his flannel shirt.

Rosser whirled on Sim Akins. "What's that on your chest?"

"It's a star," blustered Akins. "I just been made a deputy and—"

Rosser pointed at Akins. "This the kind of scum this town likes for a marshal?"

"Rosser," Condon said heavily, "you're crowding—"

"Isn't that what you did yesterday?" Rosser taunted.

Condon sent a quick, desperate look about the saloon. His eyes returned fleetingly to Sim Akins, then to Rosser.

"Get Honsinger," he said to Akins out of the side of his mouth. "What for?" demanded Akins.

"I can handle—"

Rosser said, "Handle Go ahead, handle me."

Condon saw the sudden rigidity that had come over his former huncher, made deputy marshal. He knew from old what happened to people when they confronted Tom Rosser, when the death challenge was haled at them. Only one man, in Condon's experience, had never actually backed down before the former marshal. No two, counting Johnny Honsinger.

But neither Honsinger, nor the man from Idaho was here at the moment.

Condon said thickly, "Another time, Rosser."

Rosser knew that every man in the saloon was watching, listening.

He brought up his hand and, as he had done to Harold Price, raked the back of it across Condon's face. A rough, bruising, back-handed blow.

A hush was upon the Pleasure Palace and every man in it heard Condon's words, heard them, even though they came, almost as a whisper.

Condon said, "You'll get this back, like you got it in Broken Lance." Rosser hit him again. This time his hand was closed into a fist.

Chapter XXIII

Susan Tavenner made her toilette and descended to the hotel lobby. The night clerk yawned from behind the desk, then exclaimed, "It's only ten minutes after six."

Susan indicated the dining room. "They're serving breakfast, I believe."

"Sure, the working people get up early."

"I," said Susan, "am a working person." She walked into the dining room.

Jim Fell, at a table near the door, was raising a forkful of pancake to his mouth. He lowered it to his plate.

"You're going to work this early?" he asked.

"Isn't seven o'clock the proper time?"

Fell got to his feet and indicated the chair across from him. "I'm late," Fell said. "In St. Paul I begin at six o'clock." He smiled frostily. "I do not expect the employees to report that early, however."

"I am willing to do whatever is necessary," Susan said evenly.

"I'm sure you are," Fell remarked. "As a matter of fact, I can use your services early this morning. About 100 men came here yesterday. Freighters, graders, tracklayers. They've been promised some pay and I brought the money with me. They'll be lining up even now."

And so, a half hour later, Susan found herself seated beside Bill Davis at a small table, counting out money.

The paying of the men was completed by 10 o'clock. By that time those who had been early in the line had already squandered part of their pay. The saloon-keepers who had been closing anywhere between two and four o'clock in the morning and reopening sometime between eight in the morning and noon, had somehow gotten wind of the payday and were ready to receive the railroad men.

By 12 o'clock there were a dozen or more men with empty pockets. Three freighters then found themselves rebuffed by a half dozen tracklayers and graders when they tried to get on the round of drinks. A fight ensued. The freighters gave a good account of themselves, but were losing when a pair of Rud's strong-arm men joined in the fray and rushed the freighters out of the saloon. They went to Harold Price's Nugget and found a half-dozen freighters who still had some pay left.

Tom Rosser did not leave the hotel until eight o'clock, although he had been awake some time before. He was about halfway across the street before he became fully aware of the unusual activity, due to the influx of Fell's workers.

Even Mary Donley was receiving some benefit from the railroad men, for there were some workers who thought food more important than drink. Or perhaps they were of the opinion that a base of food was necessary for the later drinking. A grader was just leaving a stool as Rosser stepped into the restaurant. It was the only vacant stool in the place and Rosser slipped into it. Mary Donley was clearing away the dishes before Rosser had seated himself.

"Forward," she said. "It's all over. About last night—"

"When I was a marshal," Rosser said, repeating himself. "They always told me every man was entitled to get drunk once in a while."

"Were you drunk?"

He looked her steadily in the eye and shook her head.

"I didn't think so," she said. So went off and Rosser looked around the restaurant. Dr. Kent, at a table with three railroad men, gave him a mocking half salute. Two minutes later the stool beside Rosser was vacated. There were two waiting customers, but Dr. Kent got up from his table, and coming forward, dropped into the stool beside Rosser.

"Sometimes," he said to Rosser, "I run into a man I can't make out. You wouldn't play poker with us last night, but then you went out and stood Condon on his ear."

"Not on his ear," said Rosser. Kent grinned sardonically. "Allowing for some exaggeration, it was quite a stunt. I'd have paid $100 to have seen it."

"Doctor," Rosser said, "you say you sometimes can't figure a man. I might say the same about you. You talk hard, but when the chips are down, you're a pretty respectable citizen."

For a brief moment, Dr. Kent's face became serious. He stared at Rosser, started to say something, then changed his mind and rose. His hand clapped Rosser's shoulder and he went out of the restaurant.

Mary's restaurant was still crowded when Rosser finished his breakfast, customers having come in to take the places of those who left. Rosser was pleased that

Mary's business should prosper and knew that no matter what happened in Great Plains in the next few days, her future was secured.

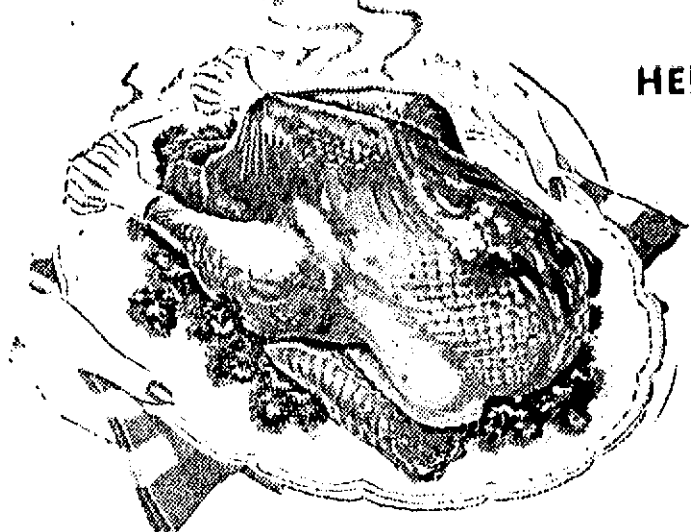

She would not need Johnny Honsinger, or men of his kind. Or Rosser.

Rosser recrossed to the hotel and stood for a while on the veranda, watching the unusual traffic on the street. His eyes drifted to the livery stable.

After a moment he shook his head impatiently. He stepped down from the veranda, walked steadily across the street.

A day hostler was helping Joe Leach unload a wagonful of grain. (To Be Continued)

Statehood for Alaska Fouls Up Statistics

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Alaska comes in as the 49th state, the geographic heart of the United States may no longer be in the United States at all.

It may be in southwestern Canada—or even in the Pacific Ocean, somewhere off the coast of Washington state.

These were preliminary guesses today of officials of the U.S. Geological Survey and the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Present position of the center is somewhere near Lebanon, Kan. The geographic center is defined as "the point at which the United States would balance if it were all the same thickness and were suspended on a pinpoint."

One way of figuring it is simply to take a map of the United States, paste it on a cardboard and then find the center of gravity by placing your map on a pinpoint.

Sounds easy, but Alaska presents complications for such a stunt, because there is no continuous land connection between Alaska and the rest of the United States. A portion of Canada pops up in between.

A government expert told a reporter one conceivable way of finding the geographic center of a United States with Alaska would be to attach the Alaskan area to a U.S. map by means of a light aluminum wire and then do your balancing.

Ike's Brother on Good Will Trip Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower's delayed good will visit to Central America will begin Saturday.

The White House gave out that word Tuesday night after Dr. Eisenhower, brother of the President, returned by military plane from a two-week fishing trip in Wisconsin.

Pentagon officials were unavailable for comment on Eisenhower's use of two small military planes in returning his party from Wisconsin's Lake Okauchee region to Wausau, Wis., and a Military Air Transport Service Convair for the flight to Washington.

The White House wouldn't elaborate beyond saying the trip was advanced in date and Dr. Eisenhower returned to make preliminary arrangements.

STARTED SCOUTING

Learning of the scouting movement when a London boy led him through a fog and refused payment for his "good deed," William Dickinson Boyce brought the scouting movement to America after a subsequent talk with Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the British Scouts.
